MELLOR SECOND: ZUNA THIRD MELLOR WINS MARATHON

THROUGH IN CONCORD AT REPRODUCTION OF BRIDGE BATTLE

With history's curtain rolled back 150 years, the echo of the shot heard round the world boomed over Concord Old Bridge today as Yankee rebels and British grenadiers battled in a reproduction of the first Revolutionary skirmish.

Five thousand spectators lined the side road leading off the main highway to the bridge, and looking on the left of the river waters in masses watched the fray and saw the rebels repulsed in the same manner they were turned back in 1775. A bitter, raw wind sent its freezing breath along the roadway, and the surface of the water, but the tremendous throng of spectators were unmindful of the cold in their excitement.

STAGED BY ENGINEERS.

Three hundred members of the 101st Engineers, M. N. G. made up the warriors on the bridge. Of this number 225 enacted roles of provincial soldiers and farmers, while 75 were in the blazing red coats, white trousers and stiff breeches of the British invaders.

As Aleppo Temple life and drum corps played briskly "The White Cockade," famous tune of the old British army, the redcoats advanced upon the bridge in command of Colonel H. M. Leonard of the 101st, and taking the role of Captain Lowry of the British Grenadiers.

Leading the provincials was Steelman Butterick, direct descendant of Major John Butterick, leader at the bridge 150 years ago.

As the last redcoat tramped up to the bridge, their leader cried: "Turn out to fix the bridge." A great play of rousing up the provincials was made—with little success, however, for the modern shakes are solid concrete and the bridge is all one piece.

The rapping was to prevent the Americans crossing. The redcoat commander then ordered: "Turn out to fire the rear shots." Two guards—one on each end—were stationed at the bridge, and one of the pair fired at the Americans.

FIRST TWO "KILLED."

"Hold there, you fellows! Desist! Back to your ranks!" cried Butterick of the rebels, but more British shots rang out, dropping to the ground Robert Lingley of Cambridge, direct descendant of Captain Isaac Davis of Acton, who fell originally, and Cyrus Housner, Jr., of Concord, direct descendant of Abner Housner of Acton, the second Concord bridge victim.

Cried Commander Butterick of the provincials: "Fire for God's sake, fire!" The American bullets rang out and the redcoats retreated, leaving two of their fellows reclined on the bridge.

Cheers broke from the crowd gathered on the snow-covered hillside and the present fire and drum corps played "The Star Spangled Banner" spiritedly and never missed a note. Battery A of the Massachusetts Field Artillery fired a salute.

'How I Won'—Told By Mellor Himself

Charles "Chuck" Mellor snapped as he realized ambition of his life by winning great Marathon classic today. Photo shows the Illinois runner crossing tape at end of grueling race. He led Clarence DeMar by a scant fifty yards. He forged into the lead at Woodlawn Park and was never outdistanced from there to the finish.

By CHARLES L. "CHUCK" MELLOR

"Gee, I'll bet my wife will be happy when she gets this telegram. This is the first thing I'll do, send this telegram."

"Of course I'm tickled to death that I won the Marathon. I was excited several times during the race and didn't know whether I could go through or not."

The race was the closest I ever was in. DeMar was wonderful horse and he and I were never more than ten yards apart at any time.

While running this, when we came to the Newcome or just before that place, I figured that I would

VICTOR'S TIME 2 HRS. 33 MIN. 35; RUNNER-UP 50 YDS. BEHIND

After years of gruelling effort, Charles "Chuck" Mellor, veteran runner of the Illinois A. C., today accomplished his life ambition by winning the classic B. A. A. Marathon.

Running easily at all times, with apparently plenty of reserve strength, Mellor astonished the experts by defeating Clarence DeMar, Melrose favorite, and the other crack distance men who had entered in the famous contest.

BOTH BRAVES AND SOX GAMES ARE OFF

The Northeast that whipped the East Coast, framed havoc with the baseball schedules of the Braves and Red Sox today. The snow covering at Braves Field caused Secretary Eddie Kelley to call both games off at the Weymouth, giving the Braves hurling division a much needed rest.

The wet soggy field at the Yankee Stadium was no incentive for the continuation of hostilities between the Red Sox and the Yanks, resulting in those two clubs engaging their second day's respite from mutual labor.

Typical New England weather, with its northeastern and every-

4 INJURED AS AUTO SKIDS IN CONCORD

Mr. Helen K. Chely, sixty years old, of Franklin street, Southbury, sustained possible internal injuries and three others were hurt when the automobile in which they were riding to view the Concord Lexington anniversary celebration skidded on the wet pavement and overturned about three miles from Concord Center today.

The others injured were James J. Chely, forty-two, Mrs. Chely's son, who sustained a fractured skull, and two others, both hands broken.

Miss Chely, mother, thirty-eight, of No. 29 Boston street, Dorchester, who was behind at the body, and Richard Leary, four, of 5, Columbia avenue, Melrose Highlands,

CLOUDY AND COLD IS BEST PREDICTION

Cloudy and continued cool weather was promised for this afternoon by the weather man, with slowly rising temperature tomorrow.

The forecast failed to take into consideration the snow which was still falling when it was given out. The official forecast for Boston and vicinity was: Cloudy and continued cool tonight; Tuesday fair, with slowly rising temperature, strong northeast and north winds.

Floods are threatened in several places and damage to fruit and gar-

FOUR-MASTED SHIP IN DANGER OFF GRAVES

An unidentified four-masted schooner, reported in distress today off Graves, near the town of Graves, was sighted by a patrol boat of the Coast Guard. The ship was seen on a soft, hazy day, and was under way at the time. It is believed that the ship is in danger of running aground on the rocks off Graves. DONALD LOWRIE, EX-CONVICT, STARTS 'COME BACK', THEN—

'I can taste that first drink now, burning like fire on my tongue. And I see the face of her who offered it, wistful and beautiful.'—DONALD LOWRIE

"It had been ten years since a girl had looked at me in that way.
"You do not know what it is to live ten years behind prison walls—hear only gruff voices or a gruffer, crueler silence; walk on stone corridors, hear the clanking of doors, see only men with hard, sullen faces.
"And then to come from that grimness and sordid—

ness, where you are no better than an animal, into a world where the sun dazzles and birds sing and women smile . . . It is an almost unbearable ecstasy—completely savage nerve strain. In those first weeks of freedom I was an alien in the world.
"I was about to leave with the whisky untasted when the half open door framed a picture—a picture of a girl. I can see the bright head thrust impetuously into the smoke-filled room; see yet the red parted lips and the milky throat lost in the folds of a lavender negligee. She laughed and immediately I seemed hearing long-silent music.

"The look of my mother sitting there amote through me with a bitter pain. I couldn't help wondering what so dear a woman had done to deserve the son that I was. I had imagination enough to know the dreams she cherished during my boyhood. None of these dreams would ever be realized. Yet there she sat with her gentle hands folded and her incredible loyalty!"

MOTHER POISONED SEVEN PERSONS FOR THRILL

FELT SORRY LATER, SHE DECLARES

Confessed Slayer's Mind Warped, Prosecutor Says After Examination

St. Paul, Neb., April 20 (A. P.).—Mrs. Della Sorenson, twenty-eight, of St. Paul, who was arrested on charges of killing by poisoning seven persons, three of them members of her own family, over a period of seven years, signed a complete confession to the crimes before County Attorney Doherty, his announcement.

"A feeling of elation and happiness was experienced after each murder," she declared.

The list of those said to have been poisoned by Mrs. Sorenson includes her three-year-old daughter, Minnie, whom she confessed to poisoning in September, 1920, because she was ill with St. Vitus dance. She poisoned her daughter, Viola, a nursing baby, in February, 1923, because she irritated her, the confession continued. In September, 1923, she said, she poisoned her first husband, Joseph Weidman, after a quarrel.

MOTHER-IN-LAW DIES.
In 1920, Mrs. Sorenson's mother-in-law, Mrs. Wilhelm Weidman, died two hours after taking medicine administered by the accused woman. "I poisoned her because she was feeble and childish," the confession said.

Two of the children of Mrs. Weidman, Mrs. Sorenson's stepdaughters, died of poison given them by Mrs. Sorenson, according to her confession. The first was her small daughter, Viola, whom Mrs. Sorenson said she poisoned "because I had it in for her mother." This was in July, 1918. The second, a four-month-old son, Clifford, died in August, 1922, and a third, a small daughter, Beulah, became violently ill from poison, which Mrs. Sorenson confessed to administering, but recovered.

The last of the series of poisonings was committed February 2, 1923, when Christina Brock went with her baby, Ruth, to the Sorenson home. This child, Mrs. Sorenson said, she poisoned "because I felt sorry for the poor infant because its mother did not care for it."

WILL GO TO ASYLUM.
Despite her confession to the slayings, Mrs. Sorenson will not be prosecuted, County Attorney Doherty of Howard county announced. He reiterated after the confession that she would be taken to the State Insane Asylum as soon as possible.

Authorities said that the investigation in the deaths of the seven persons Mrs. Sorenson confessed to poisoning and one other person, who started three weeks ago, after two of Lewis Scott's children, whom Mrs. Sorenson is said to have given some bottles, became seriously ill of convulsions.

According to the confession Mrs. Sorenson had a "feeling of elation and happiness" after the death of each person she had poisoned, and then, after thinking of what she had done, had "a feeling of fear and tried to hide what I had done."
"I was sorry and wished I had never done it," she said.

MANSLIFF FACTORY BURNS; LOSS $5,000

Manfield, April 20.—The four-story woolen factory, once occupied and formerly owned by Coney & Co. for more than half a century, but abandoned since last summer and now owned by New York interests, was consumed by fire to the extent of $5,000. Several firemen were slightly injured.

SUES HUSBAND WHO 'SLEPT ON FLOOR'

Mrs. Imogene Graf, Melrose High School teacher, and her son, W. Farnham Graf, Mrs. Graf has filed a separate support petition against her husband, Clarence C. Graf, of Lexington, charging failure to provide support and with threatening her with bodily harm and assault. Graf, in his answers to his wife's allegations, asks custody of the child and charges that Mrs. Graf deserted him. He claims his wife carried off all the furniture of their home, forcing him to sleep on the floor. A bitter legal battle for custody of the son is expected.

ARMY HORSES STAMPEDE AT CONCORD

Six mounts of the 101st Field Artillery, tied in a shed in the rear of the First Parish Unitarian Church, Concord, broke loose during the storm and scattered over the countryside.

Field Artillerymen, State Constabulary and Concord policemen rounded up five of the horses during the night, but the sixth collided with a truck near Lake Walden, breaking one of his legs, necessitating that he be shot.

The 4 & a m. parade scheduled for this morning was called off because of the driving snow storm, and a short parade was substituted for it at 8 o'clock.

WIFE SLAIN WITH MEAT CLEAVER; HUSBAND HELD
Utica, N. Y., April 20.—Mrs. Edna Brooks was slain at Whitesboro by an unidentified person who slashed her head with a meat cleaver. The murder occurred on the Route 101 toll road, where the body was found by a motorman. William H. Brooks, the woman's husband, from whom she was separated a year ago, was arrested, said told District Attorney Douglas today he and his wife had reconciled their difficulties a week ago and had again begun to live together.

Jap Air Mail Started
Tokio, April 20.—The Japanese air mail service was inaugurated today when the Tokyo-Osaka route was opened to the public.

4 MEN LOSE LIVES IN BURNING GARAGE

Waterwich, N. J., April 20.—Four men lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the garage of Conner's hotel here early today. All were employees.

Waterwich is without a water supply system or a fire company. Fire fighting apparatus went from Highlands, Atlantic and Newark, three to five miles away. A line of hose half a mile long was laid from the shoreward river in the garage and chemical apparatus also was employed.

PROMINENT CONTRACTOR DIES IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., April 20.—Thomas F. Tobin, fifty-six years old, one of the more prominent building contractors in Rhode Island, died at his home in this city after a short illness. He was president of the Thomas F. Tobin Company, general contractor. His company erected St. Brigids Catholic Church in Providence, the St. Anthony's School in Providence and apartments in Providence. He is survived by his widow and daughter.

FRANCE TO REMIT SOME GERMAN DEBTS

Paris, April 20.—The policy of the French government under Premier Paul Painlevé toward the war debt France owes the United States and Great Britain was revealed today by Joseph Caillaux, new minister of finance.

"Our associates as well as our allies will realize the impossibility of our paying our war debt any other way than through abandoning part of our claims on Germany," Caillaux said. "I like to persuade myself this hope will be realized."

5 KILLED WHEN AUTO IS HIT BY LOCOMOTIVE

Anderson, Ind., April 20.—Five persons were killed and another seriously hurt near South, a few miles from here, this afternoon, when their automobile was struck by the Hoosierland Flyer of the Indiana Motor Traction Company. The dead, all residents of Indianapolis, are:

Mrs. Mary Cotter, twenty-five; Joseph Cotter, eight; Dorothy Cotter, six; Ralph Cotter, three; and Lincoln Cotter, stepbrother.

TRUST FUNDS MUST PAY U. S. TAX IN FULL

Washington, April 20. (A. P.).—Losses incurred in the capital of a trust fund cannot be deducted in reporting the income derived from such fund, the United States Supreme Court held today in a case brought by Alice Chesney Ballantyne and Harriet H. Wood of Boston.

Lower courts held beneficiaries of income under a trust are required to report the entire amount received from the trust, and the Supreme Court in effect nullified this decision by denying the plaintiff's petition for review.

The News First When
It Is News

FUNCTIONING with the precision of a perfectly-running machine, the Boston Evening American continues to blaze the way for its competitors in the presentation of news when it is news.

Last week, the Boston Evening American gave its readers the first story of the transfer of James "Shiner" Sheehan, Charlestown "Speed Demon," from Shirley to Concord Reformatory.

It made the first announcement of the fact that Wayne "Big" Munn, former champion mat artist, would not return to Boston as scheduled.

The Boston Evening American published an exclusive picture of James E. Walters, the Lone Wolf, in the detention room at the Courthouse during his trial.

Readers of this newspaper were the first to learn that the famous navy dirigible, the Los Angeles, was scheduled to fly over Concord and Lexington today in connection with the celebration.

The Boston Evening American found a woman who supports the claim that a child was born to Lotta Crabtree, famous actress, while living with her husband in England. This woman's story was published exclusively in the Boston Evening American.

This newspaper published the first story of the police suppression of the Harvard Lampoon, the famous university funny paper, and last but not least, Boston Evening American readers were the first to learn of the disappearance of the world-famous pipe of Vice President Dawes.

If you want news while it is news, read the Boston Evening American.

"FIRST WITH THE TRUTH"

Today

(Copyright, 1926, by Star Co.)

SENATOR FERRIS, a sincere "dry," as dry as the desert of Sahara, or the inside of Jonah's whale, says prohibition is a failure.

"Lawmakers lead in violating the law," he says, shocked to hear other Senators boasting and laughing about violating the Constitution that they have sworn to uphold.

SENATOR FERRIS thinks prohibition can still "save" it. If enforcement can be taken out of politics. But that can't be done, and if it could be done, would it make any difference? If men, in secret, can change one dollar's worth of good corn into twenty-five dollars' worth of poisonous whiskey, at no expense, can you stop bootlegging?

THERE WERE fewer than 500 distilleries in the country before prohibition became the law. Since then, 24,000 distilleries have been seized. And for every one seized two have been started. Prohibition was made law by men who violate it, and never had any intention of enforcing the law or respecting the Constitution. How can you expect the great prohibition bootlegging criminal class, created by prohibition, not to follow an example set to the highest place?

BEGIN AT THIS POINT. You find that we have had three Presidents under prohibition, and Calvin Coolidge is the first of them to drink only water—plus tea, butter milk, ginger ale, and the other moral concoctions of courts.

Every servant of a great club in Washington knew that a President of the United States had, in the club, his locker supplied with whiskey and opened the barometer around among his friends, and transported the barometer to the capital in violation of law and contempt of the Constitution.

CAN YOU EXPECT those club servants to take the prohibition amendment seriously? Do you think they should be put to jail for doing what they have seen done by the President and a dozen Senators, with laughter and joking as to the merits of bootleggers and the quality of their supplies?

When law and the Constitution are despised by those in power, don't expect to find respect for law or Constitution lower down in the scale.

AND WHEN men that make the laws decide that they have properly violated one law that does not suit them, you may be sure that a new and great body of criminals will arise to defy laws concerning property that they don't like. And that is exactly what has happened in America.

WHAT IS TO be done? That is for the lawmakers to say. The law is the law, as you know, boys like to say in such cases. They did not even vote on prohibition when it was passed by earnest, sincere men, with the emotion and power of war back of them.

OSCAR PALMQUIST went down with the Titanic. But he came back to the surface, swam for hours in the icy

SCREEN

New York, April 20. — President Coolidge, although he will actually remain in Washington, more than 200 miles away, will, in a sense, appear and deliver the principal address tomorrow evening at a dinner given at the Friars Club by M. K. Rosenberg, president of King Features Syndicate, International News Service and Universal Service to more than 600 editors and publishers who will gather in New York this week for the regular April convention.

President Coolidge will address the assembled newspaper men at one range over the phonofilm, one of the amazing inventions by which modern science is enlivening time and distance.

The President will be shown on a screen at one end of the room, standing and speaking from the south portion of the White House. His every action and voice inflection will be reproduced exactly, the whole record being projected from a single strip of film.

MARTHA LEE BARES CATERER'S SECRET

How to Add a Professional Touch to Home-Made Desserts

The same difference that lies between a crisp lettuce salad with a good French or mayonnaise dressing and an equally crisp salad but one served with plain vinegar, also lies between the average run of home desserts and a real caterer's creation. So if you seek the secret of giving a professional touch to your every day desserts I will tell you not to bother about preparing elaborate dishes at all, but to go straight along with your gelatins and fruits, berries, puddings and pastries, but look to your sauces! Chances are, your desserts, excellent in themselves, are "Trian Jane" for want of an appropriate sauce to "dress them up."

There is the whole secret of the fine art of dessert-making! To prove it, try a gelatin dessert with plain cream, and then one with marshmallow cream or topped with a marshmallow cream. Or try a chocolate marshmallow sauce on vanilla ice cream or cottage pudding or a strawberry marshmallow sauce on plain rice or tapioca. Marshmallow cream makes delicious toast, too.

If you care to write to me for it, I can send you a real caterer's recipe for using what I will do, it will not be sticky and yet will remain moist and creamy on the cake. Marshmallow cream makes delicious dressing for fruit salads, too, and combined with nuts and jam, is a nice spread between cookies or wafers. Drop me a line if you would like a recipe book showing some new and very appetizing ones for "The Handy Can Around the House."

I know that marshmallow sauces will only provide delightful accompaniments for the very desserts of which your family may be tired, but which your guests will love. They are simple cream and sugar! Today's homely dessert, served with a marshmallow sauce becomes a creamy offering with all the claim of novelty.

Recipes on How to Prepare Parts of Today's Menu

BAKER'S MARBLED FUDGE

2 cups granulated sugar, 8c
1 cup Karo corn syrup, 3c
1 1/2 cups cream, 25c
1 tbs. butter, 2c

2 sq. Baker's Premium No. 1 Chocolate, scraped fine or melted, 5c
2 tps. vanilla, 3c

Melt the sugar, Karo and cream over a slack fire until the sugar is melted; increase the heat and continue stirring until the mixture boils, then boil, stirring every three or four minutes, very gently till a soft ball can be formed in cold water. Remove from the fire and pour 1/2 of the mixture over the chocolate. Set both dishes on something that will allow the air to circulate below them. When the mixture cooks a little, get some one to beat one dish of the fudge while you beat the other; add a teaspoon of vanilla to each dish, and beat until thick and slightly grainy then put the mixture into a pan, lined with waxed paper, first a little of one and then of the other, to get the marbled effect. When nearly cold turn from the pan, peel off the paper and cut into cubes. Total cost of recipe 40c. Serves 4. Cost per person 10c.

ELBOW MACARONI AND STUFFED TOMATOES

1 package Mueller's Elbow Macaroni (cooked for 10 minutes in boiling salted water), 13c
6 medium tomatoes, 20c
3 tbs. butter, 8c
2 tbs. flour, 2c

1 cup milk, 5c
1/2 cup grated cheese, 3c
1 tps. salt
1/2 tps. paprika
Parsley, 1c
2 eggs, 10c
1/2 cup bread crumbs, 1c

Cut off tops of tomatoes; remove pulp. Melt butter, add flour, gradually add milk, stir constantly. Remove from fire, add seasoning, grated cheese; mix with 1 cup of Elbows. Fill tomatoes with mixture, cover with bread crumbs; dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven until tomatoes are cooked. Surround baked tomatoes with remainder of Elbow Macaroni, sliced hard boiled eggs and parsley. Total cost of recipe 40c. Serves 4. Cost per person 10c.

WONDER MIST WELL NAMED

Shines Everything, From Faucets to Pianos

One of the very earliest of my housekeeping recollections is of a contractor who was a good enough salesman to sell me, much against my will, a supply of "Wonder Mist" and a sprayer to use it with.

I was the proud possessor of a brand new piano and had spent less than over the blue film that had already spread itself over the mahogany surface. I really bought my Wonder Mist because the man assured me and demonstrated the fact that this polish would remove the disfiguring haze, but it was not long before I discovered that Wonder Mist was the finest possible polish and cleaner for my other furniture, and for my shoes. In fact, Wonder Mist cleans and brightens all kinds of wood or bronze work and is even valuable in the sick room as a disinfectant.

Father will appreciate a Wonder Mist outfit for the garage, for it will remove dirt, dust, and stains from the automobile and will make the car look like new. Applied to the top of the auto, Wonder Mist will serve the purpose of an excellent top dressing. One application removes all dirt, dust and restores the original luster and prevents it from cracking.

If you are not already acquainted with this household fairy, I want to urge you to inquire about it at your favorite department, hardware, automobile accessory or grocery store, and I know that it will become a valued friend to you, as it is to me.

"PIGS IS PIGS"

To City Folks But Not to Modern Stock Men

Many of you, I suspect, when you hear the word pig, immediately have visions of an old pig sty filled with dirty pigs—the commonest of farm-stock pigs really aren't that way. It is usually the people that own them that are responsible for that unpleasant condition. More and more, pigs are coming to be raised with a great deal of care and they are kept as clean as it is possible to keep any animal.

Most of these pigs wouldn't be very happy in a pig sty and would turn up their little pink snouts at food that is refused. Indeed, pigs are rather choosy about what they eat; they might even be called finicky. This pig sty has to be born who would poke his nose into garbage if his owner ever gave him anything better to eat. No pig ever ate garbage from a child. Nowadays pigs are raised pretty largely in pastures and fed on skimmed milk, corn, barley and alfalfa, which accounts for the sweetness and flavor of the hams that find their way into our kitchens.

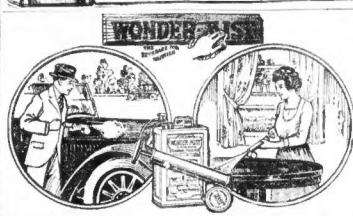

For the average family, it is really economical to buy a whole ham, and to get the most out of one have your butcher cut the ham into three parts—the butt or rounded end, the thick meaty or center part, and the shank end. The butt part may be boiled or baked and served hot or cold; the center part cut into thick meaty slices which are very delicious broiled, baked or fried, while the shank end may be boiled with vegetables, or used to give a most appetizing flavor to pea or bean soup. I have the interesting experience showing just what relates, vegetables, salads and desserts combine well with ham dishes. Shall I send them to you?

WHAT IS SPREDIT?

Let Your Family Vote On It

There is no denying the fact that there are many people who are including almost all butter substitutes, including margarine, but surely the progressive housewife is not going to let other people's opinions prevent her from becoming acquainted with a product that is a real money saver, economical and certain brands of which positively can not be told from the finest creamery butter.

"Spredit" is a nut margarine that is made from the pure white meat of the coconut and from whole some peanut oil stirred with pure olive, corn, and cream. It makes a truly appetizing spread for bread and biscuits and is an economical cooking accessory. Spredit is high in nutritive value and laboratory tests show that it contains the much talked of vitamin B which the modern mother is so careful to provide for her children. The children love Spredit, and in view of its reasonable price even the mother of the large family can watch her young ones "Spredit" on thick without a worried thought of a soaring grocery bill. Spredit is delicious on griddle-cakes, on waffles, too, and makes delicious sour cream cookies and real Southern corn bread. I know for a fact at one very busy father who wrote at just the word margarine, but is blissfully eating spread on his daily muffins without the faintest suspicion that it is better than the finest creamery butter. Shall I send you a little leaflet of recipes and suggestions for the many uses of this economical and well-borne spread?

BOSTON RADIO AMERICAN

VOICING THE GREAT VOICES OF DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR

The News Flashes straight from the office of the Boston Evening American come over Station WNAAC at 11:30 a. m., 1:30 p. m. and 4:30 p. m. The baseball results at 7:30 p. m.

BEST BETS FOR THE LISTENER

On Monday evening at 8:30 p. m. a large group of talented students from the Boston School of Music will be in the studio of WNAAC and here they will present a program which will give a complete demonstration of the ability of their musical vices.

Girls from all parts of the country will contribute to this program. There will be an orchestra of ten and a number of solo artists. The entire group has been well trained by the musical instructors of this exclusive school, and they come well able to present a program of excellence.

The program is a varied one which also pulls from the lighter comedies of modern dance music to Handel's "Largo" which will be played by a skilled string trio.

The Big Brother program over WEEI tonight will consist of a reception and farewell concert for the James H. Knapp Hawaiian troupe. This will be the last opportunity for radio fans to hear this Hawaiian troupe, which has furnished wonderful entertainment during the season from Wied. They are engaged at one of the summer resorts of New England.

TO PRODUCE MOVIE RECEIVING SETS

Simultaneous with the recent dramatic announcement by a noted scientist that he has perfected a device for transmitting moving pictures by radio, and his interesting theory that the people of the United States will be able to actually see the next presidential inauguration ceremony by radio as well as hear it, comes a statement from Francis Frankel, president of the Mowhuk Electric Corporation, to the effect that the Mowhuk corporation is already making arrangements for producing moving picture receiving sets.

"Here at the Mowhuk laboratories our engineering staff has been engaged for several months in research and experimentation on apparatus for receiving motion pictures. In this we are endeavoring to market, besides the Mowhuk single disk kiosk receiver, a station and picture receiving set. Of course, the popularity of radio and motion pictures depends upon the number of stations which will broadcast them.

Many Bostonians Depart for Springtime Outings

Mr. Nathaniel Emmons, Active in Aid of Near East Relief

Betty Alden

MANY SMART BOSTONIANS are on the wing these bright Spring days. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brattle (Dorothy Draper) of Brush Hill road, out Roadville way, depart today for Hot Springs, Virginia, to stay for some four weeks or more.

THE GANNETT party also includes Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brattle and they, too, are planning a four weeks' interlude at the famous old Spa, so beautifully situated high in the Allegheny Mountains.

PRINCESS Boncompagni (Margaret Draper), a one-time Bostonian, and who has been in the country for some months, staying for the most part in Washington and New York, will spend the Summer in the Old World.

THE PRINCESS has been a guest of her half sister, Mrs. Monica of the Washington Hotel, and was the centre of much entertaining during the just ended season.

SHE WAS a charming figure at the Marie Antoinette ball given for the benefit of the American Red Cross in the Casino de Monte-Carlo, and was the centre of much entertaining during the just ended season.

THE LATE General William F. Draper, one-time United States Ambassador to Italy, and Mrs. Draper, were the Princess' parents. The Draper mansion was one of the finest in Washington.

FOLLOWING the death of his parents and her marriage to Prince Boncompagni, she was the centre of much entertaining during the just ended season.

AFTER SOME years, however, it was announced, since which time the Princess has spent considerable time in this country.

THE LOVELY young mother, Mrs. Nathaniel Emmons, formerly Miss Helen Draper Talcott, also is prominent in the well-known Draper connection. Mr. and Mrs. Emmons are preparing to open their house at Beacon's Point, Marblehead, in a few days ago. The old title is the "Golden Rule Movie Tea," for

THE YOUNGER members of the Emmons family have not been greatly excited in Boston society, to say the least. Since their marriage a year or more ago, which was announced after they have lived abroad or in the South.

A drawing by Harriet after the portrait of Mrs. Nathaniel Emmons is one of the many patronesses for the concert on May 2, at Symphony Hall, which has Paul Whiteman as the musical attraction and is to benefit the Bryn Mawr Scholarship Fund.

JUNIORS WILL PRESENT 'THE QUAKER GIRL'

The cast for "The Quaker Girl," the annual show to be presented by the Boston Council of Jewish Juniors, has been selected and rehearsals are being held every Monday and Thursday night. The production will be given one evening only, May 12, at the Boston Opera House.

The performance, a music-opera, possesses all the fun and philosophy that made "The Avondale" a success last year. It has all the ingredients of a perfect cocktail of song, dance and humor.

Miss Lucille Brenner, whose business ability is making the show, has charge of the tickets and she reports they are going fast.

The principals are Sylvia Levy, Ann Novak, Ruth Abramson, Evelyn Holman, Phoebe Woolf, Gertrude Michaelson, Ethel Kaufman, William Silverman, Walter Hunsberger, Edwin Guterman, Bert Sokand, Harry Harwitz, Raymond Miranda, Leon Rubin.

The dancing girls are Mildred Fishman, Eleanor Prince, Ruth Brodie, Ethel Rubenstein, Dora Woschko, Ha Woschko, Martha Baum, Miriam Moxley, Ben Simon, Nettie Shapiro, Mae M. Shapiro, Ethel O'Neil and Rose Greenblatt.

The attractive choruses are: Beale Bernhart, Sally Barron, Florence Bloomberg, Rosa Cohen, Ida Cohen, Tillie Corwin, Helen Fishman, Esther Glickman, Dora Glickman, Joanne Glickman, Saveria Glickman, Esther Greenblatt, Ann Halberstam, Ethel Green, Karlin, Lee Hirsch, Lucy Lewis, Gladys Meiselman, Shirley Millman, Blanche Novak, Betty O'Neil, Esther Rosenbaum, Helen Rubenstein, Ethel Steinberg, Vera Shoroff, Rose Skolnik, Charlotte Tinn, Frances Woschko, Anna Wyman, Jennie Wolfe, Beatrice Wolman, Anna Woschko and Selma Simon.

Dr. Kalman M. Davidson of this city was honored as the dean of Jewish physicians at a banquet held by the Greater Boston Medical Society at the Hotel Somerset. This commemorative is composed of Jewish doctors in and around Boston. He was lauded by the many speakers for his years of active service to the Jews.

The nominating committee of the Statehood of the Crawford Street Synagogue will bring in the slate for next year of the meeting to be held in the center of the Temple in tomorrow night. In addition, Rabbi Samuel Abrams of Temple Chabel Shalom will make an address on "Our Greatest Modern Need." Mrs. J. O. Ross, president of the Sisterhood, will preside. It will be a joint meeting with the Men's Club. Mrs. J. Fitzsimmons will be the hostess.

STORY OF BATTLE, APRIL 19, 1775 HISTORIC SPOTS TO SEE TODAY

Every Barn and Shed Was Filled With Stores of Powder and Ball

More than 100 years ago today, the people of Concord and Lexington were preparing for the British advance. A Provincial Congress had been established at Salem and Concord, and the militia was organized for resistance in case of invasion.

Military stores were provided and packed at Concord, the principal town of New England, was the chief storehouse of the patriots. The Town House, the Court House, the Tavern, and the houses of the leading citizens were filled with powder and ball.

At Concord, the stores were packed in the barns and sheds. The powder was packed in barrels, and the ball in boxes. The stores were guarded by the militia, and the people were warned to keep away from the stores.

GENERAL GAGE READY
General Gage had been ready for the British advance. He had sent his troops to Concord, and he was ready to fight the battle.

PATRIOTS RAPIDLY ORGANIZE
The patriots were rapidly organized. They were ready to fight the battle, and they were ready to defend their homes and their country.

PICARDIN LEADS BRITISH
Picardin led the British troops. He was a brave and experienced soldier, and he was ready to fight the battle.

THE ATTACK BEGINS
The attack began. The British troops were moving forward, and the patriots were ready to fight.

"The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere"---Longfellow's Immortal Poem

LISTEN, my children, and you shall hear
Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere,
On the eighteenth of April, in Seventy-five:
Hardly a man is now alive
Who remembers that famous day and year.

HE said to his friend: "If the British march
By land or sea from the town tonight—
Hang a lantern aloft in the belfry arch
Of the North Church tower as a signal light—
One, if by land, and two, if by sea;
And I on the opposite shore will be,
Ready to ride and spread the alarm
Through every Middlesex village and farm,
For the country folk to be up and to arm."

THEN he said, "Good-night!" and with muffled oar
Silently rowed to the Charlestown shore
Just as the moon rose over the bay,
Where swinging wide at her moorings lay
The Somerset, British man-of-war;
A phantom ship, with each mast and spar
Across the moon like a prison bar,
And a huge black hulk that was magnified
By its own reflection in the tide.

MEANWHILE his friend, through alley and street,
Wanders and watches with eager ears,
Till in the silence around him he hears
The muster of men at the barrack door,
The sound of arms, and the tramp of feet,
And the measured tread of the grenadiers,
Marching down to their boats on the shore.

THEN he climbed the tower of the Old North Church,
By the wooden stairs, with stealthy tread,
To the belfry-chamber overhead,

And startled the pigeons from their perch
On the sombre rafters, that round him made
Masses and moving shapes of shade—
By the trembling ladder, steep and tall,
To the highest window in the wall,
Where he paused to listen and look down
A moment on the roofs of town,
And the moonlight flowing over all.

BENEATH in the churchyard lay the dead,
In their night-encampment on the hill,
Wrapped in silence so deep and still
That he could hear, like a sentinel's tread,
The watchful night-wind as it went
Creeping along from tent to tent,
And seeming to whisper, "All is well!"
A moment only he feels the spell
Of the place and the hour, and the secret dread
Of the lonely belfry and the dead;
For suddenly all his thoughts are bent
On a shadowy something far away,
Where the river widens to meet the bay,—
A line of black that bends and floats
On the rising tide like a bridge of boats.

MEANWHILE, impatient to mount and ride,
Booted and spurred, with a heavy stride
On the opposite shore walked Paul Revere.
Now he patted his horse's side,
Now gazed at the landscape far and near,
Then impetuous, stamped the earth,
And turned and tightened his saddle-girth;
But mostly he watched with eager search
The belfry tower of the Old North Church,
As it rose above the graves on the hill,
Lonely and spectral and sombre and still.
And lo! as he looks, on the belfry's height

A glimmer and then a gleam of light!
He springs to the saddle, the bridle he turns,
But lingers and gazes, till full on his sight
A second lamp in the belfry burns!

A HURRY of hoofs in the village street,
A shape in the moonlight, a bulk in the dark,
And, beneath from the pebbles, in passing, a spark
Struck out by a steed flying fearless and fleet:
That was all! And yet, through the gloom and the light,
The fate of a nation was riding that night;
And the spark struck out by that steed in his flight
Kindled the land into flame with its heat.
He has left the village and mounted the steep,
And, beneath him, tranquil and broad and deep,
Is the Mystic meeting the ocean tides;
And under the alders, that skirt its edge,
Now soft on the sand, now loud on the ledge,
Is heard the tramp of the steed as he rides.

IT was twelve by the village clock
When he crossed the bridge into Medford town.
He heard the crowing of the cock,
And the barking of the farmer's dog,
And felt the damp of the river fog,
That rises after the sun goes down.

IT was one by the village clock
When he galloped into Lexington.
He saw the gilded weathercock
Swim in the moonlight as he passed,
And the meetinghouse windows, blank and bare,
Gaze at him with a spectral stare.
As if they already stood aghast
At the bloody work they would look upon.

IT was two by the village clock
When he came to the bridge in Concord town.
He heard the bleating of the flock,
And the twitter of birds among the trees,
And felt the breath of the morning breeze
Blowing over the meadows brown.
And one was safe and asleep in his bed
Who at the bridge would be first to fall,
Who that day would be lying dead,
Pierced by a British musket ball.

YOU know the rest. In the books you have read
How the British Regulars fired and fled,—
How the farmers gave them ball for ball,
From behind each fence and farmyard wall,
Chasing the red-coats down the lane,
Then crossing the fields to emerge again
Under the trees at the turn in the road,
And only pausing to fire and load.

SO through the night rode Paul Revere;
And so through the night went his cry of alarm
To every Middlesex village and farm—
A cry of defiance and not of fear,
A voice in the darkness, a knock at the door,
And a word that shall echo forevermore!
For, borne on the night-wind of the Past,
Through all our history to the last,
In the hour of darkness and peril and need,
The people will waken and listen to hear
The hurrying hoof-beats of that steed,
And the midnight message of Paul Revere.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.
